

Project Neuron

Project Stage - Beta. New Linux version looks to be much more successful. V 3.9 is a mostly "static" version in that only one library is now needed dynamically and it seems to overcome many of the issues in previous versions. Optimisation has also made it quite competitive with the Windows version too! Linux users are asked to try the new version. To try and get a bit more Linux feedback the project is being opened up to new users for a short while.
